1. Account Analysis is used to determine the monthly service fee. Account Analysis calculates the service fee based on the volume of activity in the account and then applies an Earnings Credit to offset all, or part, of the monthly transaction fees. If transaction fees are greater than the Earnings Credit, the account will be charged the difference. The Earnings Credit rate is variable and tier based and calculated on the collected balance. Refer to Relationship Manager for current rates and tiers.
2. The Monthly Transaction and Cash Deposit Fees show the standard charges applicable to this account for the monthly transactions. The standard fees listed, however, may be adjusted and customized to you depending on Relationship Pricing and additional Treasury services you utilize in your deposit account. For a full list of any adjusted charges, please refer to your pro forma (along with the Fee Schedule document), or you may also contact your assigned relationship manager.
